Senator Chandler.

The Kansas City Journal in an article on the recent death of Senator Chandlersays: "But the great leading trait of character was his transparent patriotism, his lofty devotion to freedom and his intense love of country. There was no purer public man, and his fame after twenty years of public service, has not even the insinuation of faint upon it. His bitterest personal and political enemies, and a man of his strong, aggressive nature had both, have never assailed his personal integrity or official honor." This may be slightly tinted by partiality but certainly no statesman could desire better words said of him when it comes time to close his accounts

Fighting Joe Hooker.

General Joe Hooker who died at his home on Long Island last Friday was about the only general who acquired a name early in the war and carried it through to the end. Early in 1862 he got the name of "fighting" Joe Hooker and that name he was known by till his death. He held many important commands east and west and always had a hand in the fighting.

The Burlington Gazette has this to say editorially of the attempt to abolish religion in this country. "Mr. Ingersoll proposes to organize a rationalist-reform party in politics, and has called a convention for that purpose. So we shall have two national reform parties, one to secure a recognition of God by the United States constitution; and one to eliminate the recognition that is already there. Mr. Ingersoll intends that there shall be no disfranchisement of unbelievers, no oaths administered in the basis of responsibility to God, no Sunday laws, no exemption of sectarian property from taxation, nothing in constitutions or laws which shall recognize or confer any advantages upon religion. In a certain lunatic asylum in an eastern state a class of the inmates are set down as religious fanatics, and another class as infidel fanatics. There are both kinds, both in and out of insane asylums. A man may make himself insane by cultivating his hatred of religion." The above quotation is rather well said, and it may be set down as a fact that the present age will not see religion abolished by law although it may be a matter of doubt, if oaths and some other things could not be profitably abandoned.

Morton and Chandler were the central figures, supplying the force and brains of what was known as the "Senatorial Group" during the last years of the Grant administration. With the death of Chandler the group is thoroughly broken up, as for the future it will not have the necessary leadership. This was the group that Grant tried to stand out against on going into office, but even he was compelled to surrender.

At a meeting of the American missionary association in St. Louis last week a speaker paid a feeling and eloquent tribute to Stanley the great African explorer, but failed to say a word for Dr. Livingstone who by a life of unceasing and unflinching labors gave value to the work afterward undertaken by Stanley.

Miss Florence Lincoln, daughter of a prominent Cincinnati lawyer took the white veil at the Ursuline Convent at St. Martins, Browne county, Ohio, one day last week.

Did you ever notice a poor chap that stands in the first picture of the almanac with the fish and sheep and scorpions and bulls and twins, etc., around him? Did you ever notice that he was naked and had nothing in his stomach? Well that poor fellow used to edit a paper.—Mission Mirror.

The cable still continues to bring accounts of great storms in Spain by which immense damage has been done. Many lives have been lost.

LOS CERRILLOS.

New Camp on Old Mines—Mountain of Mineral.

In addition to the St. Louis boarding house, owned by five St. Louis boys, Mr. Maddux has a family tent, at which the hungry traveler can find a dinner for 25 cts, which may be called rather cheap for a mining camp. At this house I found two gentlemen who were going out to locate a claim and with them I climbed one of the highest of the fan shaped hills and from its top gained a good idea of the country. To the north and east are the low, round hills forming the southern extremity of the Rocky Mountains. South of the Cerrillos, flowing from north-east to south-west is the Gaiisteo. Ten miles to the south-east are the Old Placers, with apparently the same formation as the Cerrillos. A camp at the Old Placers was plainly in sight. On the north-west a glimpse could be had of buildings in Santa Fe, and to the west the Fort Wingate road could be seen raising from the bed of the Santa Fe river to the flat plateau. Every part of the Cerrillos district is marked with prospect holes, and I have ample evidence that almost every one shows good ore.

The great need of this district is a stamp mill, and active capital to work the mines. It is understood that, if some recent assays show well, the necessary machinery will be furnished and that unlimited capital can be secured. Two tunnel claims have been located, 3,000x1,500 feet each; actual measurement shows that such a claim will take in almost an entire peak. A tunnel run through the entire length of one of the hills would cut all the veins and doubtless open up untold wealth.

The official name of the camp is Carbonateville and by that name the post-office, presided over by Don Aoy, is known. At the first of the rush, last spring, the ore was supposed to be carbonate like that of Leadville and from that fact it received its name. The men residing in the camp set in to succeed and they are bound to do it. Men who camp out, purchasing their own provisions and having their work, when help is hired, done at reasonable terms, are in a fair way to find their fortunes. Mr. N. B. Laughlin, recorder, would probably be able to give any additional information desired. One of my friends on my prospecting trip was the ex-recorder, but I have lost his name. Nearly every State in the Union is represented, Missouri and Iowa leading. St. Louis alone having a delegation of a half dozen and Marshalltown, Iowa, an equal number. All are anxious to help the prospector along, so that no one need feel lonesome. Mr. and Mrs. Hull expressed their delight with the good order in the camp; all the men being well behaved and desirous of making the camp pleasant and enjoyable. The family of Mr. Maddux will soon be on the ground, others will follow, and soon there will be no lack of good society for any family. The boys have heard of the "Danites," some of their number receiving names from the characters in the plot. I can not say that the camp is booming; as some of the miners have gone to town for the winter, others are working on the railroad to take grub stakes; which reminds me that the road goes within two miles, or such a matter, of the southern borders of the district and this will add to the value of the mines. If, when the road is completed, good rates are given, the miners will ship the ore to the east, in bulk, to have it reduced. By next May the mines will be booming and the men who stick now will be sure of fortunes.

It appears from a recent interview by the National Republican with Stephen A. Douglas, Jr., that the Republicans of the south will strongly urge the nomination of Hor. Thomas Settle of Florida, to the Vice-Presidency before the next Republican convention. It is very clear that the candidate for that office must come from the South next time.

The tea-table organ can rehearse the election news this evening.

BY TELEGRAPH.

ELECTIONS.

GOOD BYE, SAMMY!

The Barrel Busted!

HENDRICKS AND POTTER LOOM UP!

Beast, Ben Butler, Bucks Bully, but is Beaten.

TOO MUCH EXTRA SESSION!

[Special to GAZETTE.]

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 4.—So far the returns give Long 2,291 votes; Butler 2,204; Adams, 1,621; Eddy, 25; republican loss 192.

New York City, Nov. 4.—Fifty election districts give Cornell, 3,405; Robinson, 3,997; Kelly 2,846; Haskins 3,462; Potter 6,557.

Boston, Nov. 4.—Two hundred and ten towns give Long 95,087; Butler 81,532; Adams 7,710; last year, Butler 34,875; Talbot 194, 028; Abbott 764.

NEW YORK.

Brooklyn, Nov. 5.—The vote in this city stands, Robinson, dem., 44,414; Cornell, rep., 31,509; Robinson's majority 13,905.

Albany, Nov. 5.—The Evening Journal, republican, says that forty-five republicans have been elected to the senate and forty republicans to the house.

New York City, Nov. 5.—Plurality for Cornell, rep., from twenty-five to forty thousand, though the state ticket is still in doubt. The indications at this hour are that the republicans have carried the whole ticket, with the exception of Soule, for state engineer.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Philadelphia, Nov. 5.—The republican gain on the state ticket is twenty thousand, with a full majority of thirty thousand.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Boston, Massachusetts, Nov. 5.—Ben Butler is defeated; Long's plurality is fully twelve thousand. Legislature is republican.

Returns from all but eight towns give the following vote: Long, rep., 121,726; Butler, 108,597; Adams, 9,734; Eddy, 1,743.

ILLINOIS.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 5.—Complete returns for treasury in Chicago give Johnson, rep., 22,644; Guerrin, dem., 18,987; Johnson's plurality 3,657. In the county the vote stands, Johnson, 23,386; Guerrin, 21,168; socialist candidate, 8,911; Cook county entire gives Johnson a plurality over all of 818; republicans gain through the entire state wherever issues joined.

CONNECTICUT.

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 5.—Only a legislative ticket elected. The republicans elect nine out of eleven senators.

WISCONSIN.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 5.—The republican gains are near on to six thousand and upwards. Their majority in the whole state is twenty thousand, with a prospect to reach twenty-eight thousand.

Denver, Nov. 5.—There are few returns to-day. The indications warrant large republican gains in New Jersey and in fact everywhere.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Some time ago a report was received by Commissioner Hoyt from the Ponca reservation in the Indian Territory that Big Snake, chief of the Poncas, was threatening to kill the agent, who last summer caused his arrest and imprisonment for one month, for disorderly conduct, making himself a terror to the Indians as well as the agents. His arrest was ordered, and a detachment of soldiers from Fort Reno were employed to effect it. Big Snake, resisting the arrest, was shot dead by a soldier. The occurrence caused considerable excitement among the Indians; but it was quieted.

Gen. Hooker.

New York, Nov. 1.—The Society of the Associated Pioneers of California will take action upon the death of General Hooker next Monday.

The governor's room in the city hall has been set apart for the purpose of having the remains of Major General Hooker lie in state there.

The funeral of General Hooker will take place here on Wednesday. The remains will be buried in Cincinnati.

Financial Holiday.

London, Nov. 1.—The first secular days of May and November being the days on which the Bank of England makes up its balances, they are observed as holidays in the bank and on stock exchange. Consequently no business is doing to-day at either place.

As Safe as a United States Bond.

We publish elsewhere the thirty-fourth annual statement of the NEW-YORK LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, and it speaks more eloquently than words for the fidelity and ability with which the affairs of that Company are managed. With a surplus of $6,500,000, the managers of the New York Life may confidently appeal to the public for patronage. There is one feature in the report which must command the attention of all interested in life insurance and that is the excess of market value of the securities amounts to more than six hundred thousand dollars. During the past year the New York Life has issued 5,982 policies, insuring $15,919,986. The cash assets amount to the enormous sum of $37,887,235, and this shows that a policy in the New-York Life is as safe as a United States bond.

Mr. A. B. Sager represents this great company at Las Vegas, and no one should neglect to insure with him and secure a policy which without question is as safe as a United States bond
